Traveling in GZ in 2023

- - - - X

A lot happened in 2023, starting a city walk was one of them.

I always perceived it as tiring and using not having friends or loved ones as an excuse to avoid the activity.

In 2023, I had to consider abandoning badminton, a major hobby, due to the joint and organ damage it was causing.

Something else has to become a new hobby. Finding myself always being jealous of people traveling, a sudden urge for traveling erupted, and it started.

Panyu square - 20231004

Panyu square station was the first stop in this journey.

Nearby the station were the Panyu gov, Panyu square park(which unfortunately closed on that day), Aeon mall, Jisheng wanke.

Aeon mall being the more popular one, though mostly selling clothes.I find its own brand to be pricey with low quality. On the higher floors there is a large space with plenty of food options. Not a bad place to try out a variety of food.

Jisheng Wanke has a large area but not many customers. May be good for just a short rest and drink.

South railway station, Nancun wanbo, etc - 20231005

The GZ south railway station crosses subway line 22, was very crowded, but not a lot of business; much worse than an air station tbh.

Chentou gang was under construction, pretty much still a middle-of-nowhere

Nancun wanbo was huge. I didn't get to finish it in one go. There were Panyu teemall, Wanda plaza, Sihaicheng.

Teemall and Wanda plaza were huge shopping areas with mostly clothing stores, restaurants, kids playground, electronics, theaters.

Sihaicheng was more like a large area for restaurants and performances, seemingly connecting to a resident area.
